

This image shows a vertical strip of a book's binding. On the right side, there is a dark, textured spine. To the left of the spine is a light-colored, possibly white or cream, page. The page appears to be blank, with some minor dust or scanning artifacts visible. The binding is visible as a thin line between the page and the spine.

